

Mysteries in Broad Daylight

A Three-Hour Journey into the Deeper Meaning of Everything

Do you enjoy mystery stories? None is more intriguing than life itself! Every thoughtful person wonders: Why are we here? What's the secret to happiness? Why do we suffer? Can evil be overcome? Does God exist? Does anything in us survive?

The great works of philosophy, religion and literature offer important insights into these perplexing enigmas. But, some of the best clues are right in front of us, hidden in plain sight. Everything from the foods we enjoy to our friendships, from the clothes we wear to our favorite jokes can be a doorway into life's depths!

Our food preferences offer valuable clues

In this amazing seminar/workshop — conducted by Dr. Mark Dillof — we shall explore our everyday interests, desires, conflicts, and anxieties for the clues they offer to life's deepest enigmas. And what you'll discover will astound you!

Even golf has a deeper meaning

We'll also explore the deeper meaning of the darker side of life — everything from job conflicts to relationship disappointments, from nightmares to various psychological maladies. The good news is that this investigation can lead us to the true secrets of inner-fulfillment.

Jokes can offer us insight into life.

This seminar is power-packed with high intensity insights. It will illuminate your world and transform your life into a philosophical detective adventure. Naturally, the ultimate enigmas can't be deciphered in three hours. But you'll be further along the path that leads to the light, to inner peace and to self-realization.

Mark Dillof, Ph.D. — philosopher and depth psychologist — is director of The Dillof Institute for Transformative Knowing. In addition to offering seminars, he engages in philosophical counseling.
